MEMORANDUM FOR THE FILE

RE: ^oMAJOR AUTOMOBILE FINANCE COMPANIES
INVESTIGATION AT MILWAUKEE, WISCONSIN

B
60-2146-17
With reference to the oral request made of the Milwaukee Office by the Antitrust Division of the Department for an accountant to make an analysis of [redacted] subpoenaed for presentation to the grand jury on September 20th relative to the above investigation, I asked Mr. Melvin at Milwaukee just what the nature of the work is.

He replied they want an accountant to go over the records and correlate data, placing same on work sheets for presentation to the grand jury.

I asked him why this request was not made of the Bureau direct, rather than of the Milwaukee Office, and Mr. Melvin said he did not know, although he had advised that such requests are usually made through the Bureau at Washington. He advised that such a request has been made now and the Bureau would probably receive a memorandum containing same.

I told him to assign an accountant to this matter. The Bureau is now in receipt of a request from Mr. Jackson of the Antitrust Division, as will be noted from the attached memorandum.

Dear Sir:

As requested by you, Special Agent G. P. Brees, Jr., on September 14, 1937, interviewed Mr. Frederick Berndt, Branch Manager, General Motors Acceptance Corporation, 606 West Wisconsin Avenue, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, for the purpose of obtaining permission to attend a meeting of the General Motors Club to be held on September 15, 1937.

Permission was granted by Mr. Berndt, at which time he advised Special Agent Brees that a meeting of said club would be held at the Hotel Schroeder, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, at 12:15 P.M. September 15, 1937; that there would be present at said meeting the automobile dealers in Milwaukee County and surrounding counties who handle General Motors automobiles, and that the General Motors Sales Corporation is located in the State of Michigan.

Mr. Berndt advised that he and Mr. Ella Renter, Sales Promotions Manager of the General Motors Acceptance Corporation, who is attached to Mr. Berndt's office in Milwaukee, were the only representatives of said corporation who would be present at said meeting. He also advised Agent Brees that in connection with this meeting requested that the said automobile dealers be given invitation to their bankers to attend said meeting. He advised that this meeting is one of a great many similar meetings to be held throughout the country in key cities where there are large numbers of General Motors automobile dealers. He stated that the purpose of these meetings is to further good will between General Motors Corporation and its dealers and to ascertain the ideas and suggestions which the dealers might have to offer in connection with sales policies and methods of the General Motors Corporation.

Mr. William Knudsen, President, General Motors Corporation;

Mr. Berndt advised that the subject of these talks would be "Dealers' Council and Dealers Relationship" and related subjects. He advised that no secretary would be appointed for this meeting and that no minutes would be taken. He stated also that these meetings are held more or less periodically.

In accordance with telephonic instructions on September 15, 1937, no Agent attended the above referred to meeting. On September 15, 1937, Agent Brees obtained from Mr. Berndt a copy of the written invitation extended to the dealers to attend this meeting, and a copy of the press release giving an account of said meeting, which copies are being forwarded to you herewith. Dear Sir:

In re: United States of America vs.
General Motors Corporation, et al.
South Bend Criminal No. 1039.

In a telephonic communication with Mr. Tamm of the Washington office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation we were assured that the Indianapolis office would be authorized on September 27, 1939 to conduct an investigation of the panel drawn for the petit jury in the above-styled case which is set for trial beginning October 9, 1939 at South Bend, Indiana.

The list of one hundred names drawn for the trial is enclosed. We would appreciate a full report on the panel by October 5, 1939.

I assume that such investigations have been routinized. Inasmuch as I am not familiar with the type of investigation ordinarily made in such cases, may I suggest that we are interested in learning, among other things, the following:

The present, as well as the past, business or professional connections of each prospective juror;

His family connections;

Banking connections;

Employment by or transactions with federal governmental agencies;

Attitude generally toward the present administration;

Possible reaction toward the Government's present foreign policy;

Special Agent PECK conducted investigation at the Bureau of Motor Vehicles, Indianapolis, Indiana, for information concerning the automobiles owned by all of the veniremen.

Arrangement of members of the panel is alphabetical.

ANGLEMEYER, MERVIN E.

One of his boys is believed to have served a term in a reformatory. He is not actively interested in politics, and his party affiliation is not known. He is believed to have been bitter against the McNUTT administration, and his attitude toward the present Federal administration is not well defined. He owns his own farm, on which he makes a fair living, is possibly indebted somewhat, and it is believed he receives financial assistance from a brother from time to time. He owns a 1931 Chevrolet car which is unencumbered. His father was a farmer before him, and although living at the present time is retired. He has one married daughter. He banks with the Peoples Bank, Claypool, Indiana. Although a Republican and believed to be conservative, in his political beliefs, his attitude toward the present administration is not particularly unfavorable, and he has expressed himself as being in favor of the Government's present foreign policy. He is believed to have received crop curtailment benefits through the general administration farm program. He owns a farm of between 200 and 300 acres, and is believed to be in generally good financial condition and in general good health. His general financial situation is considered average, although he owns much land. His credit rating is generally good. He is of good reputation and character, and not one to be bribed or bought off. He is fair-minded, but might be opposed to the Government if he were sitting as a juror and a question of politics is involved. There is no record of any automobile owned by BLUM, and an examination of the records of Starke County clerk and recorder's office fails to reflect any data of interest.

He banks with the First Bank and Trust Company, South Bend, Indiana, and the St. Joseph Loan and Trust Company, South Bend, Indiana. On December 17, 1938, he gave a chattel mortgage on 695 bushels of corn to the Commodity Credit Corporation. Subsequent transactions with Federal Government agencies are unknown. He is a strong Democrat, and is favorable to the present administration, and his attitude towards the Government's present foreign policy is believed favorable. His general financial situation is considered fair. He earned a salary of about $125.00 a month in 1935. He owns property of the approximate value of $2,000.00 in his own name, and other property with his wife valued at $1,400.00. He is believed to have been in the general insurance business at one time. Although his health is believed fair, because of his age a lengthy trial might tire and irritate him. He is reported as being the biggest crook in Marshall County, Indiana. His local bank failed at Plymouth, Indiana, and he had transferred about all his assets to his wife and daughter. He has done some financing through mortgages and chattel mortgages, but is believed to have done very little financing with respect to automobiles. He is believed to have questionable business ethics. There is no automobile registered in BONDURANT's name.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE
October 4, 1940

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE

The Department of Justice today announced the filing of a civil action in the United States District Court for the Northern District of Illinois, Eastern Division, against General Motors Corporation and General Motors Acceptance Corporation, alleging violation of the Sherman and Clayton Acts. The action is brought to divest the General Motors Corporation of all ownership and control of General Motors Acceptance Corporation.

Reasons for Bringing the Suit.

The complaint alleges that General Motors Acceptance Corporation is a wholly owned subsidiary of General Motors Corporation, engaged in financing at wholesale cars purchased from the factory by General Motors dealers, and at retail General Motors cars purchased on time. Through coercion and discrimination General Motors Corporation and General Motors Acceptance Corporation, acting together, require General Motors dealers to finance with General Motors Acceptance Corporation on both wholesale purchases and retail sales of General Motors cars. Under the device of owning its own automobile finance company, it is charged, the General Motors Corporation is able to control completely the business operations of General Motors dealers despite the fact that under the terms of the selling agreement between General Motors dealers and the General Motors Sales Corporation, the selling agency for General Motors cars, the dealer is not considered either the agent or legal representative of the seller. This control results in direct restraints on the movement of General Motors cars in interstate commerce, according to the complaint.

~~NOT RECORDED~~

The complaint alleges that the power of the General Motors Corporation, flowing from its complete ownership and control of General Motors Acceptance Corporation, is such that it is subject to abuses which can be corrected permanently only by severance of that ownership and control; that injunctive relief is inadequate since, among other things, the mere fact of ownership constitutes a coercive influence on General Motors dealers who purchase and sell General Motors cars in interstate commerce.

The ownership of an automobile finance company by a concern occupying as powerful a position as that of the General Motors Corporation, controlling over 15,000 automobile dealers who are dependent for their livelihood and the preservation of their assets upon General Motors Corporation, with the vast majority of automobile sales in interstate commerce depending upon the use of financing facilities, in itself tends to give the General Motors Group a monopoly in the financing of General Motors cars and complete control over the financing charges in connection therewith, as well as every activity of the dealer whether it leads directly to the financing of cars or to other matters in connection with their sale.

Economic Results to be Anticipated.

The divorcement of General Motors Acceptance Corporation from General Motors Corporation will permit General Motors dealers and retail purchasers to choose freely the financing medium for the purchase of General Motors cars. It will free the dealer from the complete subjugation and control of all his business affairs by General Motors Corporation which has been exercised through the device of the factory affiliated finance company, General Motors Acceptance Corporation, and will place the financing of the sale of General Motors cars on a competitive, as opposed to a monopolistic, basis.

Relationship of Suit to Previous Automobile Litigation.

The instant suit is another phase of the Government's antitrust litigation against the major manufacturers in the automobile industry. On May 27, 1938, separate indictments under the Sherman Act were returned against the Ford Motor Company, the Chrysler Motor Company and General Motors Corporation and their affiliated automobile finance companies. The indictments alleged that the three motor car companies and their affiliated finance companies had coerced dealers into using the financing facilities of the affiliated finance companies. On November 15, 1938, civil decrees were entered in the Ford and Chrysler cases enjoining the practices complained of and setting up a code of fair competition for automobile finance companies. Under these decrees the Ford and Chrysler Companies divested themselves of all interest in their affiliated finance companies. The indictments were nolle prossed.

There were two escape clauses in the Ford and Chrysler decrees. One clause provided that the injunctive relief in the Ford and Chrysler decrees would be inoperative in the event the Government failed to convict General Motors Corporation in the criminal suit. This clause was inserted to protect the Ford and Chrysler Companies against a competitive advantage that would inure to the benefit of General Motors in the event of failure to convict that company. On November 17, 1939, a jury convicted the General Motors Corporation,

General Motors Sales Corporation, General Motors Acceptance Corporation, and General Motors Acceptance Corporation of Indiana, Inc. of violating Section 1 of the Sherman Act. The case is now on appeal.

The other clause provided that the Ford and Chrysler Companies might acquire an interest in an automobile finance company in the event the Government failed, in a civil action, to divorce General Motors Corporation from ownership and control of its affiliated finance company, General Motors Acceptance Corporation. The instant case seeks such a result.
